Dear Sharing Friend,

Chris Campbell knows firsthand the devastating power that racism has to crush an emotionally healthy person's sense of self-worth. During the late 60s, when she was a college student, she entered a restaurant with a friend. The hostility of the people there was so open she actually feared for their physical safety. And her self-esteem, so carefully nourished by a loving family, was temporarily undermined, leaving her feeling, "dirty".

She has not forgotten that experience. When she graduated from Law School she framed a dream to return to her hometown of Mound Bayou, MS, and establish a program that would help young African-American children appreciate their dignity and fortify their belief in themselves.

Today, this soft-spoken lawyer has fulfilled her dream with the founding of the Kemetic Institute. By providing after school classes and summer enrichment programs, which include Black history and culture, the Institute is helping young Black students build up their sense of worth and dignity.

It is you who have helped Chris fulfill her dream, through your support of the Good Friday Walk. The Kemetic Institute has been supported by Sharing since its founding in 1991.

And Sharing, Inc. would not exist without the persistence of Kay Doherty, who realized forty-eight years ago that she was being called by the Spirit to respond in faith to the problems of poverty and racism. Through the years she has shared in the experiences of many African Americans in the South, and subsequently shared some of those with you.

You can help Kay continue to share by renewing, or beginning, your membership in Sharing, Inc. Your contribution will ensure that well over 90% of the money raised by the Fiftieth Good Friday Walk will go directly to programs that are expanding the horizons of economically poor Black children.

Thank you for your generosity.
